Archaeology Café at Ozone Pizza Pub Archaeology of Pensacola's Red Light District

PENSACOLA– The Destination Archaeology Resource Center (DARC) and Ozone Pizza Pub are hosting Archaeology Café on Thursday, August 28 starting at 6 p.m.

Jacqueline Rodgers, an archaeology graduate student at the University of West Florida, will present her research about the archaeology of Pensacola's red light district titled "Across the Line: Historical Myths and Archaeological Realities of Pensacola's Red Light District." It will be followed by an open discussion. While the women who worked in Pensacola's red light district left few written records behind, archaeology is finally helping to tell their story. Come join us and learn how!

At Archaeology Café guests can order food, drinks, and listen to an archaeologist explain some of their discoveries in a casual and relaxed environment. No lecture halls; just interesting and inclusive conversation with experts in archaeology, one of the most fascinating scientific fields. Archaeology Cafe is inspired by the numerous Science Cafés that have gained enormous popularity in cities across Europe and the United States.

Archaeology Café is held inside Ozone Pizza. It is free and open to the community. Seating is unreserved and limited to 55 guests. Guests are encouraged to support our hosts at Ozone's by purchasing food and drinks. Guests are encouraged to show up at least 15 to 30 minutes early to make orders. Ozone Pizza Pub is located at 1010 N 12th Ave. in Pensacola.

This event is hosted by the University of West Florida Division of Anthropology and Archaeology, the Florida Public Archaeology Network, Destination Archaeology Resource Center, WGBH Science Unit and Ozone Pizza Pub.
